

IND E 499 – Special Projects in IE (Independent Study)

Some undergraduate students in IE conduct independent research under the supervision of an IE faculty member. Usually, this research is tied to a faculty member's current research interest or project(s). To organize an independent study or special project, you should contact a faculty member with whom you would like to work and see if they are willing to supervise your undergraduate research.

If you come to an agreement with an IE faculty member, you should complete the IND E 499 form. Once the form is signed by your faculty member, turn it in to the IE academic counselor and obtain an add code for registration. Students may register for 2-5 credits of research per quarter, depending on arrangements made with the instructor.
